Tokyo is Alarmed Over Presence of Subs in Jap Waters

By the Associated Press
Japan took alarm today at the reported presence of 20 U. S. submarines operating in Japanese waters, even as Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the Asiatic fleet, announced that American submarines had gone into action for the first time in the 11-day-old conflict and scored successes in two out of three attacks.

U. S. army headquarters in Manila reported also that at least 26 Japanese planes had been destroyed yesterday at Vigan, 200 miles northwest of Manila, where the Japanese still maintained one of their three toeholds on Luzon Island.

Admiral Hart's cryptic statement did not identify the victims of the American counter-blows—whether Japanese warships or merchant craft—or the locale of the sinkings.

It seemed plausible, however, that the United States was tightening a blockade around the Mikado's densely populated island empire. Meanwhile, British headquarters in Singapore acknowledged that Japanese troops had landed in Sarawak on the northwest coast of Borneo, British-protected domain, within 300 miles bombing range of Singapore itself and 600 miles from Manila.

A Batavia communique said a Dutch bomber scored a direct hit on a Japanese destroyer covering hostile landing operations at Miri, Sarawak, close to the frontier between Sarawak and British North Borneo. The southern part of Borneo is Dutch.

With the Japanese throwing their land, sea and air forces into a spreading offensive around the South China sea, military experts said Tokyo war strategy evidently at a quick knockout of British and Dutch strongholds, seizure of vital resources and control of the sea lanes by which reinforcements could reach the Allies.

In London, a government spokesman told parliament that all steps had now been taken to coordinate British, United States and Allied war plans in accord with President Roosevelt's call for "world-scale strategy," but that Britain has not yet asked Russia to declare war on Japan.

Japanese warships, bombers and land batteries also were reported yesterday, pointing siege-bound Hongkong, Britain's second-greatest stronghold in the Far East, and a Reuters dispatch said Japanese forces had seized the Portuguese island of Macao, 45 miles southwest of Hongkong.

While London quarters appeared gloomy over the prospect of Hongkong holding out, latest dispatches from the island itself reported that Americans there are "all right" and the colony's fortifications are "strong enough to resist all attempts at invasion."

A Tokyo communique said that Japanese forces had sunk six boats and damaged a destroyer and three other vessels in Hongkong waters.

On the northwest Malaya front, where the Japanese are smashing forward in a drive aimed at Singapore, davyces reaching London said Japanese troops fighting like fanatics were throwing themselves into the teeth of British artillery and machine-gun fire in perhaps the heaviest battle of the Far East theater.

With the fate of northwest Malaya and its principal city and island base, Penang, apparently at stake, British troops were reported yesterday counter-attacking the Japanese invaders.

Japanese troops, pouring into the first from Holland, were admitted well-equipped and operating with strong aerial support. A warning by Lieut. Comm. Kengo Tomioka of imperial headquarters to expect attacks by U. S. submarines brought home the war to Japan, whose own fleet was widely scattered, with some assigned to hit-and-run shelling of Johnston and Maui islands near Hawaii.

Tomioka said the U. S. craft were of a superior 2,000-ton type with a cruising radius of 5,200 miles, and urged Japanese seamen to be on the alert for them.

JAPS LAND ON COAST OF BORNEO

Singapore Dispatch Indicates Enemy Throwing Land, Sea and Air Forces Into Spreading Offensive Around South China Sea Aiming for a Quick Knockout of British and Dutch Strongholds

EFFORTS APPARENTLY PARTLY FRUSTRATED

Singapore, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Japanese forces have landed in Sarawak, a British area on the northwest coast of Borneo, it was announced today as the Japanese threw their land, sea and air forces into a spreading offensive around the South China sea.

The Japanese evidently were aiming for a quick knockout of British and Dutch strongholds, seizure of vital resources and control of the sea lanes by which reinforcements could reach the Allies.

Their effort apparently was to strike heavy and scattered blows before resistance could be organized and coordinated, but this seemed to be at least partly frustrated.

The Dutch disclosed that one of their planes, supporting British resistance to the enemy landing at Miri, Sarawak, had scored a direct hit on a Japanese destroyer.

Oil was an obvious objective at Miri but the Batavia radio said "everything was destroyed before the Japanese could land... Even oil plants at the port of Miri have disappeared."

The Japanese landed at Miri and nearby Lubong, both only a short distance from the Sarawak border with British North Borneo. A communique said British forces destroyed oil refineries, wells and other machinery and withdrew before the invaders landed.

This was the newest spread of Japan's tactics of scattered blows, all coordinated with the chief drive against Singapore, the core of Britain's Far Eastern defenses.

Besides landing on northern Malaya, 400 miles north of Singapore, and attacking through various sectors of the eastern front.

But Soviet dispatches pictured the Germans in headlong flight, by no means effecting a strategic withdrawal, with a Moscow communique declaring:

"The fleeing enemy is being pursued and annihilated by our troops."

On the North African front, British imperial headquarters reported that heavy British pressure was being maintained on the left flank of Hitler's battered desert armies and that new progress was registered despite fierce sandstorms during the past 24 hours.

A hint that the Italians may already be pulling out of North Africa dropped up in a British admiralty communique reporting that an Italian general and 19 other military officers from Libya to Italy had been sunk in the central Mediterranean.

BROAD PLAN OF CENSORSHIP IS TO BE INVOKED

Congress is Looking for Legislative Shortcuts to Affirm Communications Restrictions and Other Wartime Powers for President

A. P. MAN IS ASSIGNED

Washington, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Stephen Early, White House secretary, said today the government hoped to have the rough outlines of a censorship plan ready for President Roosevelt's approval by the time the war powers bill reaches him from congress.

Early said an advisory committee composed of Vice President Wallace, Attorney General Biddle, Postmaster General Walker, and Lowell Mellett, director of the Office of Government Reports, had been working on various plans for some time and that they would be submitted to Byron Price, newly appointed censorship director.

Price is expected here Friday to take over his new duties. He has been granted a leave of absence as executive news editor of the Associated Press. The war powers bill is expected at the White House soon, possibly today.

The censorship setup will be different from that created in 1917 under George Creel, Early said. Government departments and agencies will continue to issue press releases, as at present, but those bearing on the war will be approved first by an interdepartmental committee to be established under Price's direction. In the first World War all war information was filtered through Creel's office of information, which had its own reporters covering the government departments.

Besides erecting a barrier against filtration of military data to the Axis, the new, broad grant of power to the chief executive would authorize him to re-allocate federal functions, grant contracts without bidding, grant contracts and control completely the financial transactions of aliens.

Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference yesterday outlined a partly voluntary, partly compulsory censorship over all media of communication and announced Price's appointment as director of censorship.

DRAFT AGE LIMIT IS UNDECIDED

Well-Informed Congressmen Say That Pending Extension Measures in the House and Senate May Be Compromised to Provide for Active Military Service for Men From 20 Through 44, Inclusive

PRESSURE IS EXERTED BY ADMINISTRATION

Washington, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Informed congressmen said today that pending draft extension measures in the house and senate might be compromised to provide for active military service for men from 20 through 44, inclusive.

Legislation scheduled for house debate at a floor of 21 below which men could not be inducted, but a similar senate bill would permit the selective service system to dip down to those 19 or older—as requested by the war department.

Many members expressed the opinion that the two chambers would pass the bills in those divergent forms and that a joint senate-house conference committee would compromise at 20.

Administration pressure, springing from a strongly worded letter from President Roosevelt endorsing the 10 through 44 age limits, was being exerted however in behalf of the senate bill.

Both measures call for the registration of all men from 18 through 64, inclusive, which, including the 17,500,000 already registered, would affect an estimated 41,000,000 men.

There were indications that the major fight over the legislation in the house would involve the age limit for active service. Other amendments may be offered, however, which would preclude active military service for men under 20 unless they had been trained for at least 12 months.

Still others were designed to direct the war department to induct married men whose wives or other dependents are not entirely dependent on them.

Industries Asked to Meet Wake Challenge

Washington, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Secretary Knox of the Navy cited today the gallant defense of Wake island by United States marines in urging industry to speed production.

A telegram addressed by Knox to principal manufacturers holding navy contracts read: "The navy at Hawaii is undaunted."

"The marines still hold Wake. Will you meet their challenge?"

"Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy."

MANY DEAD IN EARTHQUAKE IN SOUTH FORMOSA

Total of 612 Houses Razed and Some Damage to Railways and Communications Is Reported in Tokyo Dispatch

MAINS ARE AFFECTED

Tokyo, Dec. 17.—(Official radio received by AP)—One hundred and ninety persons were killed and 164 injured today in an earthquake in southern Formosa, the overseas affairs ministry announced.

A total of 612 houses were razed and there was some damage to railways and other communications, the ministry added.

Hiruya Iino, colonial affairs minister, was received by Emperor Hirohito in the imperial palace and answered the emperor's questions regarding the earthquake, Domei reported.

Domei in its first report on the quake said that southern Formosa was shaken "by its biggest earthquake since 1930, when 354 persons were either killed or wounded and over 2,000 homes were damaged."

Railway communication between Kagi and the port of Tainan was reported to have been disrupted and dispatches said telephone lines within Kagi were severed. Water mains also were said to have been affected.

(The wording of the broadcast was vague as to the casualties, and the reference to 354 dead and injured might have concerned today's toll. Communications difficulties which develop from earthquakes, however, normally delay announcement of such a specific figure for several days.)

Formosa, one of the springboards for Japanese air attacks on the Philippine islands, is little more than 200 miles north of the northern Luzon coast.

The island has an area of 13,390 square miles—roughly that of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut combined—and has a population of more than 3,000,000.

MINE OFFICIALS ON TRIAL AT INDIANA, PA.

Indiana, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Charles Ransell, foreman in the Kent No. 2 mine of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company, where seven men died in an explosion last June 30, went on trial in Indiana county court on charges of involuntary manslaughter and violation of the bituminous mining laws.

State Mine Inspector George J. Steinhilber was under cross examination by Chief Defense Counsel Charles J. Margiotti when court recessed yesterday. Steinhilber was head of an investigation board which recommended that the charges be filed against Ransell and Superintendent Lawrence J. Redding, who will be tried separately.

Five-Man Group is Silent Concerning Plans of Procedure

Washington, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The special five-man board appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate the surprise Japanese attack on Hawaii met today in the office of Secretary of War Stimson to organize and discuss procedure.

Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox were present at the meeting.

The board, headed by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the supreme court, arrived at the war department at 5 p. m.

With Roberts were Major General Frank R. McCoy, retired, Brigadier Joseph D. McNamery, of the army air corps, Admiral William H. Standley, retired, former chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, retired, former commander-in-chief of the fleet, the other members of the board.

None of the group would discuss the meeting.

The personnel of the board created a favorable reaction on Capitol Hill, and as a consequence some legislators looked for a noticeable decrease in demands for a separate congressional investigation.

President Roosevelt meanwhile was acting swiftly to set up a system of censorship to prevent all information of value from reaching the enemy. The censorship Mr. Roosevelt explained, would be partly mandatory and partly voluntary and would apply to the press, radio, cables, mail and other mediums.

The chief executive took preliminary steps in anticipation of final congressional action legislation investing him with sweeping wartime powers. The senate and house voted the powers unanimously yesterday, but a minor difference in the separate bills held up final action until today.

The post office department disclosed, however, that censorship of incoming and outgoing foreign mail already was in progress, but withheld details for the present.

Fifth column espionage, events have shown, played a big part in making possible Pearl Harbor's "bloody Sunday" and the censorship program obviously was designed to prevent a repetition of such spy work, among other things.

As for the war fronts, the capital continued to glory in the valiant resistance of the marine garrisons at Midway and Wake ("send us more Japs") island. The last navy communique yesterday said both tiny bases still were "counting the blows of the enemy."

Two new Japanese bombing attacks on Wake were reported, one of them very heavy, but the leathernecks apparently still had the situation in hand.

Details of the hit-run attacks on Johnston and Maui islands were sparse.

Johnston, which lies 770 miles southwest of Honolulu, was bombarded by the enemy at dusk, the navy reported, in language indicating that surface vessels made the attack. The island is the site of a naval air base, and successful action would impair American communications.

The shelling of the shipping center of Kahului on the island of Maui was done by an enemy submarine at approximately the same time. The attack on Maui was (Turn to Page Two)

Honolulu Buries Her War Dead on Green Hills Overlooking the Sea

By EUGENE BURNS
Honolulu, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Day after day, just before sunset, with simple dignity befitting the gallantry with which they died for their country, America's finest have been buried at Honolulu.

They have been laid to rest on green hills overlooking the sea—there to remain until a peaceful time when the bodies might be returned to their native soil.

This has been going on since Monday, Dec. 8, the day after Japanese bombings brought death to 91 officers and 2,638 enlisted men of the navy and 168 of the army.

A light-tipped group of six-foot, marines in olive-drab uniforms, raise their rifles and fire three volleys over the fresh earth as night approaches fast. A bugle sounds taps.

A black-robed priest blesses the ground with holy water and a Protestant chaplain recites the committal ceremony—then the living move back to heel, their war jobs and the life of the nation.

"Don't say we buried with sorrow," said the graying chaplain of the fleet, Captain William A. Maguire. "Say we buried with conviction. Our men died manfully and we will wipe out that treachery, come what may. The spirit of these men lives on. I can feel it. Each grave is marked and each body carefully identified for shipment back to the mainland after the war is fought and won—back to home towns."

London, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The government conscription bill, which will make British women subject to compulsory national service and extend conscription of men for military services to the ages of 18½ to 50 years, was enacted today by the house of lords. It will take effect upon the king's assent.

London, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Lord Woolton, minister of food, today announced severe new penalties against "black market" food dealers as Christmas shoppers complained of high prices and the scarcity of delicacies.

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Japanese, who have used midget submarines in attacking Hawaii, were reported today using one-man tanks in the Malay Peninsula fighting. The tanks were so described by a Singapore correspondent of the BBC, whose broadcast was heard by CBS.

Plans Started To Co-ordinate Allied Efforts

(From Page One)
Ambassador John G. Winant, in a brief speech to a private meeting of about 200 members of parliament, said steps were being taken to insure allied cooperation. Winant spoke in a parliamentary committee room.

Law said that China had full legal status as a British ally.

Members of the house, forecasting a querulous tone for forth-coming secret debate on the war situation, bombarded the government with questions about the creation of a unified allied war council, adequacy of the empire defense, strategy in the Far East and joint British-American efforts to obtain naval bases in China.

The government gave no sharp indication on the idea of an overall war council. President Roosevelt's concept was brought into the debate by Edgar Louis Granville.

Turkey Showing Grave Anxiety

The Ankara, Turkey, correspondent of the Neue Zuercher said airfields were being enlarged and increased in Bulgaria along with repair facilities for German planes.

The correspondent said Bulgaria's war against the United States had "caused much anxiety in Turkey."

German naval units are being concentrated in the Bulgarian Black Sea ports of Varna and Burgas, he reported, but added: "Turkey doesn't believe Bulgaria will attack during the winter . . . she watches the approach of spring with anxiety."

Crack Trains In Wreck In West

Train was a doubleheader—were demolished and one baggage car was pitched on end. No passenger coaches overturned.

E. S. Humphrey, of Mokane, fireman on the east bound train, said the westbound flyer crashed into his locomotive "traveling about 50 or 60 miles an hour."

He was bruised and cut and had an injured leg.

"We apparently had a bum set of orders," he told an Associated Press staff man at the hospital, but added quickly he didn't mean they had been tampered with.

Night Brantley, FBI division chief at Kansas City, had ordered an immediate investigation of the wreck.

The St. Louis-Dallas trains normally pass at the wreck scene, one taking a siding.

more daring, for the island is one of the Hawaiian group, only about 100 miles southeast of Pearl Harbor and Honolulu. Here again, damage to communications would appear to be the objective of the attack.

However, the sporadic nature of the Japanese attacks and the odds against their inflicting heavy damage bespeaks the deeper strategy involved—diverting strength from the battle fleet.

The continued hammering assaults on Wake and Midway by Japanese surface units, backed by air support, and the likelihood of even bolder hit-run attacks at widely scattered U. S. possessions in the Pacific, all fit with this strategic concept.

serve the country, from financial worry.

This is embodied in the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act of last year which suspends "enforcement of civil liabilities"—and that includes taxes, installment payments and insurance premiums—in certain cases to permit service men "to devote their entire energy to the defense needs of the nation."

The widow's pension is not determined by the fighter's gold braid or years of service, but by the age of his widow and the number and ages of the children. So the private's widow may receive a larger pension than the major-general's, though the six month's pay, of course, would be otherwise. Pensions are paid for death in action or from natural causes.

Leader Bartley (Ky.) said he hoped to get the draft extension legislation to the floor during the day but added it was unlikely his chamber would act before tomorrow. Bartley said he was confident the senate would approve the 18 through 44 age limits suggested by President Roosevelt.

Senator Van Nuys (D-Cal.) questioned the advisability of lowering the minimum draft age to 18. "That is a little too young," he asserted, adding, however, that it might be advisable to give men of 19 and 20 some form of preliminary training which would not involve actual military service.

Senator Pepper (D-Ill.) said the minimum draft age should be reduced to 19 and added:

"If we are going to fight the war we have got to do it the most effective way. It is a sad necessity, but it is a necessity that such young men be drafted. In modern war, young men are the best qualified."

LOCAL SOLDIERS AT INDIANTOWN TO GET LEAVES

Fears of many local residents that their sons and other relatives who are members of Company I, 112th Infantry, stationed at Indiantown Gap, might not be permitted to come home for the holidays were dispelled today when it was stated by headquarters of the 28th Division that they would "stick by" their announced policy of granting "50 percent" of the soldiers Christmas furloughs and the remainder New Year's leaves.

First enlisted men already have been released for a 10-day Christmas vacation.

War censorship prohibits announcement of the movement of schedules of individual units, and the division's public relations office, in answer to persistent reports that certain regiments would not be given furloughs, explained: "The division in general is sticking to the policy of 50 percent furloughs. Some units may not follow the general policy but it is the wish of the commander (Major General Edward Martin) for every soldier to have a Christmas or New Year's furlough, if possible."

For the first time since the start of the Civilian Pilot Training program by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, young men in this section are being given an opportunity to receive free flight training at the Warren Airport with the possibility of continuing in higher classifications of training for either army or commercial service.

At a meeting of the aviation committee of the Warren County Federation of Clubs, held last evening at the Elks Lodge Home, it was announced that there are at present openings for 31 students in the ground school for the next C. P. T. class, which is to get under way about January 2.

Four students already have been enrolled and have passed their physical examinations for the coming class.

In order to join the coming class, young men must have attained their 18th but not their 26th birthday prior to January 2, 1942. They must be male citizens of the United States and if under 21 years of age, they must have the written consent of their parents or guardians.

Students in the ground school must pass a rigid physical examination, equal to that now required in the U. S. Army Air Corps. No person who must wear glasses is eligible.

Only cost of the complete flying course, which will be awarded to the ten who receive the highest marks in the ground school final examination, is for the physical examination. Each applicant must pay his own fee of $12 for this test.

It was stated at the committee meeting last night that all physical examinations must be completed by December 31.

Young men who are interested in the Civilian Pilot Training course which is now being organized may obtain complete information and registration blanks by applying to the Warren Airport, or to the office of the coordinator, H. D. Baker, Third avenue.

The following representatives of the various clubs participating in the program also have forms and can give information concerning the class: American Legion, James V. Scallan; Veterans of Foreign Wars, William R. Simon; Elks, E. W. Hildum and A. A. Albright; Coneywango Club, Edward Walker; Moose, Walter Kiser; Eagles, W. H. Beecher; Sons of Italy, Sam Gerardi; Marconi Club, A. J. "Buck" Scallan.

Kinzua, Dec. 13.—A great army of hunters invaded the town last week but before the week ended nearly all became discouraged and left for their homes. The warm and rainy weather made deer hunting futile. This week very few hunters were here in spite of the colder weather and snow. The first in town to obtain deer the first week include W. S. Murry, Luther Winslow and Gene Shine.

SALVATION ARMY RECEIVES GIFT TO BOOST FUND

A substantial gift of $100.00 from John A. Hawke swelled the Salvation Army's Christmas and winter relief fund to approximately $600.00 toward the necessary $1,000.00 required, it was announced today at the Warren corps citadel.

Apart from the above mentioned contribution, the largest amount given is $10.00, the number totaling seven. Appreciation is expressed every gift by Salvation Army officers regardless of the size of such a gift.

Complete tabulation of returns have been necessarily postponed due to a shortage of office help and illness among the limited corps of workers; however, to date street kettle collections have reached slightly in excess of $200.00, profits on the sale of the Christmas War Cry exceed $175.00 and gifts from individuals and organizations total almost $225.00.

This report compares favorably with other years and with normal weather conditions and a continued generous response in the closing days of the effort, the entire fund should be fully raised.

The program of distribution calls for about one hundred baskets and family orders, suitable gifts to more than three hundred children, special remembrances for a goodly number of shut-ins and many varied forms of practical assistance. As previously stated, the demands upon the fund will be held to actual existing needs to permit carrying on a prolonged schedule of emergency service through the winter months.

GET THIS STRAIGHT ABOUT THE RED CROSS

Rumors are easily started and difficult to overtake. Misconceptions are sometimes impossible to correct. We learned this to our sorrow in the last war. Indeed, the repetition of irresponsible talk, or passing on ideas received from uninformed individuals is a form of unintentional sabotage against which we must all be on guard daily.

Having learned a lesson or two in the last war, it is well to forestall, so far as possible, such possibilities now.

Since the Red Cross is launching a nation-wide campaign for emergency funds, it is well for the people of Warren County to have a few straight facts to start with, about our own local chapter and about the national organization.

Here is one: Our local Red Cross workers are not paid. All women who put in days of labor are patriotic volunteers. All members of the board and of the many activities in this large local organization are giving hours of their time freely and many of them go to considerable personal expense.

Here is another: With reference to the current campaign for war emergency funds, you may hear inquiries concerning money which the Red Cross already has on hand. The American Red Cross is required always to keep on deposit a substantial amount, to be available immediately for quick use in time of civilian disasters—such as floods, earthquakes, wrecks, tornados, etc.—and for expenses which continue through peace and war.

The present campaign is for war emergency in which millions of dollars will now be required for military, naval, and civilian need of huge proportions.

The fact that the Red Cross, as a national organization, does have money on hand for operating expenses and for ordinary needs assures all contributors to this emergency war fund that 100% of each dollar be transmitted intact to the work for which the donors contribute in this crisis.

If you overhear some one dealing in rumors, ask him (or her) to furnish proof. If you hear questions asked, refer the inquirer to Red Cross Headquarters for information. Those who are seeking to serve our country in this great work deserve such cooperation from all patriots.

And they urge that all efforts to help be unified and intelligently conducted. Sometimes even very enthusiastic, patriotic people need to be reminded of the importance of unified endeavors, for the sake of functioning smoothly and with standard efficiency. In this connection, any groups wishing to undertake First Aid work are requested to make contact with Red Cross Headquarters. This will make for effectiveness and uniformity. The American Red Cross holds the local chapter responsible for oversight and direction of such work; and a qualified instructor is always available.

It is quite generally agreed that one of the most astounding things in Secretary Knox's report of the Pearl Harbor bombing was the statement that the "fifth column" at Hawaii was the most effective of any to date excepting Norway.

Wonder what Warren folks did for leaning posts and match scratchers before the parking meters were installed?

A beautiful job of interior decorating for the Christmas season is to be seen at the Warren National Bank.

Only a thousand, more or less, shopping days 'till three years from this coming Christmas.

Seven shopping days and six shopping nights before Christmas!

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—East Side, West Side... all around the town...

That was too bad about Dai Vernon, the magician... He fell off a wharf into the river... On the way down he hit a tug, and broke both arms... This is liable to hold Dai back a spell... He's a finger man... He works with his hands... card tricks, Turkish rings, disappearing coins, thimbles, cards... The success of these tricks depends on nimbleness, confidence, and a quick running wit... Dai had these... He will have to guard those arms carefully to get back in shape.

I was glad to see Joe Besser get a break in the Sons of Fun reviews... He's a work horse, one of the best comics around... He takes some of the pressure off Olsen and Johnson, and by his rummy behavior won a place in the town's heart... Off stage he's one of the friendliest, nicest guys I know; on stage, he's one of the funniest.

ALFRED LUNT and Lynn Fontanne—two minds with but a single thought. That thought is of their farm at Genesee Depot, Wis. So Lynn's Christmas present to Alfred will be a cow. His present to her also will be a cow. They say solemnly their holiday will be spent learning to milk... After Christmas, they'll leave Genesee Depot and resume their tour with Bob Sherwood's great play, "There Shall Be No Night."

ART HODES, it may confidently be said, not only works at the Pepper Pot, a Greenwich Village nightclub, he IS the Pepper Pot. He plays piano. He conducts the orchestra. He got that way by haunting boogie-woogie joints in river towns and wherever Negro musicians maneuvered the wild and unregulated two-handed rhythms of the back-to-back-woogie movement. He teaches boogie woogie too. Among his students is a Columbia University professor.

AS General Custer on the screen, Errol Flynn dies with his boots on, but as plain Citizen Flynn, just vacationing in New York, he almost died with them off. Of cold, I mean. It happened this way. He went up to Central Park to be inducted into a tribe of Indians, and in this way the movie hero became a blood-brother of good old Butch, our first chasing guy.

But during the ceremony Errol had to remove part of his clothing. He got his pants back, and his coat, and his hat. But his shoes never did show up. They simply "disappeared." The temperature, when this happened, was one degree above freezing.

PATRICIA DONNELLY thinks you can go bankrupt on trips that cost you nothing and for this reason she turned down a prize of dinner for six at the Stock Club. She won a balloon contest entitling her to the dinner, but her refusal was explained this way: "I can't afford the size tip of a six-plate dinner at the Stock Club demand." Patricia's a vocalist.

FANNIE BRICE can't remember anything about her first stage appearance except the name of a song she sang. It was "You know you're not forgotten by the girl you can't forget."

STORIES IN STAMPS

Trinidad Bases Will Be Caribbean's Finest

THE United States Army and Navy is spending some 50 million dollars in Trinidad for the finest bases and airfields in the Caribbean, exclusive of those on American soil.

The stamp above, picturing First Boca, was issued in 1927. This site is important in hemisphere defense for it is in the "Dragon Mouth" straits between Venezuela and Trinidad.

Trinidad is strategically valuable to the United States since it commands a vulnerable approach to the Panama Canal, trade routes to South America, and airways between the North and South Americas and the two hemispheres.

Approximately 40 million dollars is being spent on Army airfields and defense while the Navy has designated about 10 million dollars for improving and defending the harbor and base near Port-of-Spain. Army airmen will be near Valencia and Longdonville.

The shortage of skilled labor, transportation and equipment as well as fuel and swampland were difficult. American Army engineers had to overcome.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The biggest worry of official Washington in these early days of war is fear of widespread hysteria throughout the nation.

That was the chief reason President Roosevelt took the air the other night—to try to create calm in a people who were giving evidence of letting war jitters lead them into panic.

THE Seattle episode of a mob smashing lighted windows was one outburst. The near panic on the New York Stock Exchange was another. The blackouts and bomb scares on the west and east coasts were all accomplished with evidences of overwrought nerves.

Even in Congress, where not so many hours before, war had been voted with calm deliberation, some senators and representatives went verbally berserk. It was these reports, scattered, but steadily piling up on the desks of government officials that gave them even greater alarm than the reports of serious damage to our fleet in the Pacific.

These officials already are trying to formulate rules and regulations by which the people, self-imposing them, can avoid the hysteria and resulting confusion which the enemy would so much like to see spreading over the land.

AMONG these, the first is pay no attention to rumor. The theater of war is a thousand miles and more away. Communications are disrupted. News will come back slowly and will even then have to be filtered to be certain that none is given to the enemy by being made public.

Naturally, this leaves the door wide open for all sorts of concoctions that have no basis in fact. And the worst and most damaging of the fabrications will be planted by the enemy.

Federal officials say it is not impossible that American cities will be bombed and that every city should have its precautionary plans drawn and ready for instant action. BUT, they continue, without enemy bases nearby, there can be no large-scale bombing in this phase of the war.

While there has been no concrete evidence of Fifth Column activity yet, almost any of the cases of hysteria reported could have been touched off by enemies within.

HOW to keep the people on guard for Fifth Column activity without setting off a witch hunt is another one that is putting gray hairs in many Washington heads.

The prime activity of the Fifth Columnists, before the armed forces arrive is to create distrust in one's government and one's institutions; to set up race hatreds; to align class against class; to turn every one against his neighbor; to throw the country into confusion.

According to investigators, the chief instrument of the Fifth Columnist in this country for a while now at least will be talk—just plain conversation that will have as its objective those things mentioned in the paragraph above. And that is the kind of conversation that will have to be guarded against.

HERE again, rumor will play a big part—rumor by word of mouth, in letters, and perhaps in the newspaper.

There is one certain way of getting around the Fifth Columnists. Insist on facts. Demand proof and don't believe anything until you have it.

That, at least, is what some government officials here say will cure the war jitters and keep them from recurring. If they can be held in check for a few weeks, through the Office of Civilian Defense—will be worked out to keep them there for the duration.

95th BOMBARDMENT SQUADRON
In the first World War, the business end of a kicking mule seemed an appropriate insignia to fliers of the 95th. They proved their right to the device with 47 confirmed victories in 230 combats, one of the best records of any squadron. They lost six men killed and had four wounded. The unit served in the Toul, Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne campaigns.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter 24
More Mystery

"NOT to expect her back when?"

"Tonight," Asey demanded. "Who took the call? What did he say, exactly?"

"I answered," Freddy told him. "I said, 'What time?' and a man's voice said, 'Is this Miss Olive Beadle Jones?' I said, 'Yes,' and he said, 'Well, don't expect her.' Then he hung up before I had a chance to ask who he was, or how he knew about her, or where she was, or anything else. I called Hanson and told him, right away, and he tried to trace the call. But he couldn't find out anything about it except that it was made on a pay phone. The operator said there'd been a flurry of calls right about then, and she didn't notice who called the Inn. All she knew was that it wasn't a long distance or a collect call."

"What did you make of the Cummings incident?" Freddy asked. "That make any sense to you, Asey?"

Asey shrugged. "Course," he said slowly, "it's perfectly possible she just happened to do something out of the ordinary to-night, and wanted Mrs. Doane to know she was all right, and he was late. On the other hand—"

"On the other hand, she doesn't do things out of the ordinary," Freddy interrupted. "I wish I could make you understand that."

Freddy broke off as Hanson entered the living room. He looked distracted.

"Where the hell have you been, Asey?" I wish you wouldn't go dashing off! Peterson wanted to talk with you before he left. Look, he says there's something to indicate that the bullet on the bullet found on the bullet, so it's probably from a Colt automatic and not a revolver."

"Huh?" Asey said. "In other words, she probably was killed by a bullet from the twenty-two that was there in the booth with her. Peterson was pretty sure, was he?"

"He said there's always the chance it wasn't, but I think he's sure. He'll phone us back later, and he's going to look up and see if he can't find out who bought the gun—wants the matter with her."

He pointed to Mrs. Clutterfield, who was still squealing at intervals.

"Ooooh."

"What's the matter with you?" Hanson said brusquely.

"Ooooh! I didn't know a goat was so important!"

"What's she talking about?" Hanson appealed to Asey.

"I don't think," Asey said, "it's worth the time to go into it. Tell me, Mrs. Clutterfield, just what was you lookin' in windows for, anyway?"

"Ooooh!" Mrs. Clutterfield said. "I saw all these policemen moving around! Alfred was afraid. He said there might be trouble. I wanted to see what was going on! Really, if it's a matter of a fine, I'm sure I can."

"I'm sure you can, too," Asey said. "Tomorrow morning, Mrs. Clutterfield, I'll tell you the fine, and you will. Right now, you go up to your room and stay there!" Mrs. Clutterfield scurried up the stairs.

Now For Rankin

"WHAT did you back her off like that for?" Cummings wanted to know.

"I can't concentrate with her squealin' so," Asey said. "Besides, I'm sure she ain't got a thing to do with this. Her problem is runnin' over a goat."

"What was all that about a fine?" Cummings persisted.

Asey grinned. "That's just a charitable problem, Doc. Where's Rankin?"

"You'll find your friend in the smoking room," Cummings drew on his overcoat and picked up his little black bag. "A blend of tolerant amusement and refined irritation. He was only waiting for a street car—I mean, he was only chasing someone else. I always enjoy that. It was just me. It was two other fellows and I have fun with him. I'm going to join Care."

"You're going to do more work tonight?" Asey asked in surprise. "Thought you rated workin' up there at night. You always claimed the place didn't have enough."

"It doesn't," Cummings said. "But there's a new fellow. I want to get to know him. I know if he's any good, he'll know if he's any good. I'll be in the smoking room. Rankin's reading a 'Sea, Rascal' column."

"Huh!" Rankin said. "Why do you want to know?"

"None," Cummings said. "I had a good time last night. What was it? Outside of a few punches, I thought you was all right."

"It's the 'Sea, Rascal' column," Asey said. "A wise uncle of mine, he's got years ago that successful young man with beards. People have now connect beards with success."

...I'm forty-eight, as a matter of fact. Mayo. I gather it's Ann who's been killed, and not Miss Olive. And I also gather from Cummings' mutterings that he thinks I killed her. I didn't. I was very fond of Ann. But as I told Cummings, if I'll make the authorities happier, go upstairs and go through my things. Fred into something that strikes your fancy. You'll find a forty-five Colt in my bureau drawer, and a license to carry it in my pig-skin wallet. And tell me, why does Dr. Cummings dislike me so?"

"Well," Asey said. "I think it's mostly the bill you owe him."

"The bill I owe him? But I don't! I left money with Freddy to pay that bill last year, before I went home. If she forgot, why should he send me a bill? My God!"

"He said that he did, but—"

"He never did! I never got any! How utterly ridiculous, to suspect me of killing Ann because I didn't pay a bill he never sent me! Was that the reason he said me so much?"

"That's proper," was brought in here and told to wait for you. Nobody explained why."

"Didn't they bring up the matter of somebody lurkin' around peerin' into windows?" Asey asked.

"I brought up that matter, myself," Rankin said. "Look, you remember my cigarette lighter? You threw it at Hanson, and in all that rush after Elissa, I forgot to retrieve it. I'm fond of that lighter so I went out to see if I could find it. And when I turned the corner, I saw the house. I saw someone dash away from the bushes and waited to see if the fellow might come back. In my own way, I was trying to be helpful. I thought that, under the circumstances, someone darting about bushes in a surreptitious fashion was someone to get and investigate. And while I was lurking there in the bushes, waiting, this trooper grabbed me. I'm sure," Rankin concluded, "that he meant well. So did I."

Bright Girl

"I SEE," Asey said. "Now, tell me about this girl Ann Joyce, will you?"

"She was an awfully bright and talented girl," Rankin said promptly. "I was very fond of her. She worked for me as my secretary the winter before last. It was admittedly a stopgap job. She wanted to go on the stage. She was good-looking, and had one of the loveliest voices I ever heard, and I thought she had ability. So I told people about her, and helped her get a job here in the South Pochet Barn Theatre last summer. And I don't mind telling you that whatever success the Theatre enjoyed was due wholly to Ann. Last winter she got some under-the-table, and this summer, she came back to the Barn Theatre to get more experience."

"Then," Asey said thoughtfully, "you couldn't hardly, in all honesty, refer to her as a star, could you?"

"No. That's why," Rankin said in a troubled voice. "I can't begin to understand this business of her being shot! Ann wasn't important, in the sense of her being any colossal, glamorous success in the theatre! She wasn't. She was just a talented, ambitious youngster starting to work her way up."

"An' been at the foot of the ladder," Asey said. "She wasn't far enough advanced on her career to have what you'd call awful complication' problems, was she?"

"She had problems," Rankin returned. "The problem of getting three meals a day is no less acute in the theatre than it is anywhere else."

"Uh-huh. But there wasn't Hollywood agents fightin' over her," Asey said, "or admirers challenge each other to duels, or people she'd stepped on veined to pick out her eye teeth. Nobody stood to lose millions because she did this thing instead of that thing. The point I'm makin' is that while her problems mattered to her, they wasn't important as far as reachin' enough to make someone want to kill her."

"I don't see why anyone would want to kill her anyway," Rankin said.

"You can't think of anyone you might call an enemy of hers?" Asey asked. "Anyone that might have had a grudge against her?"

Rankin hesitated.

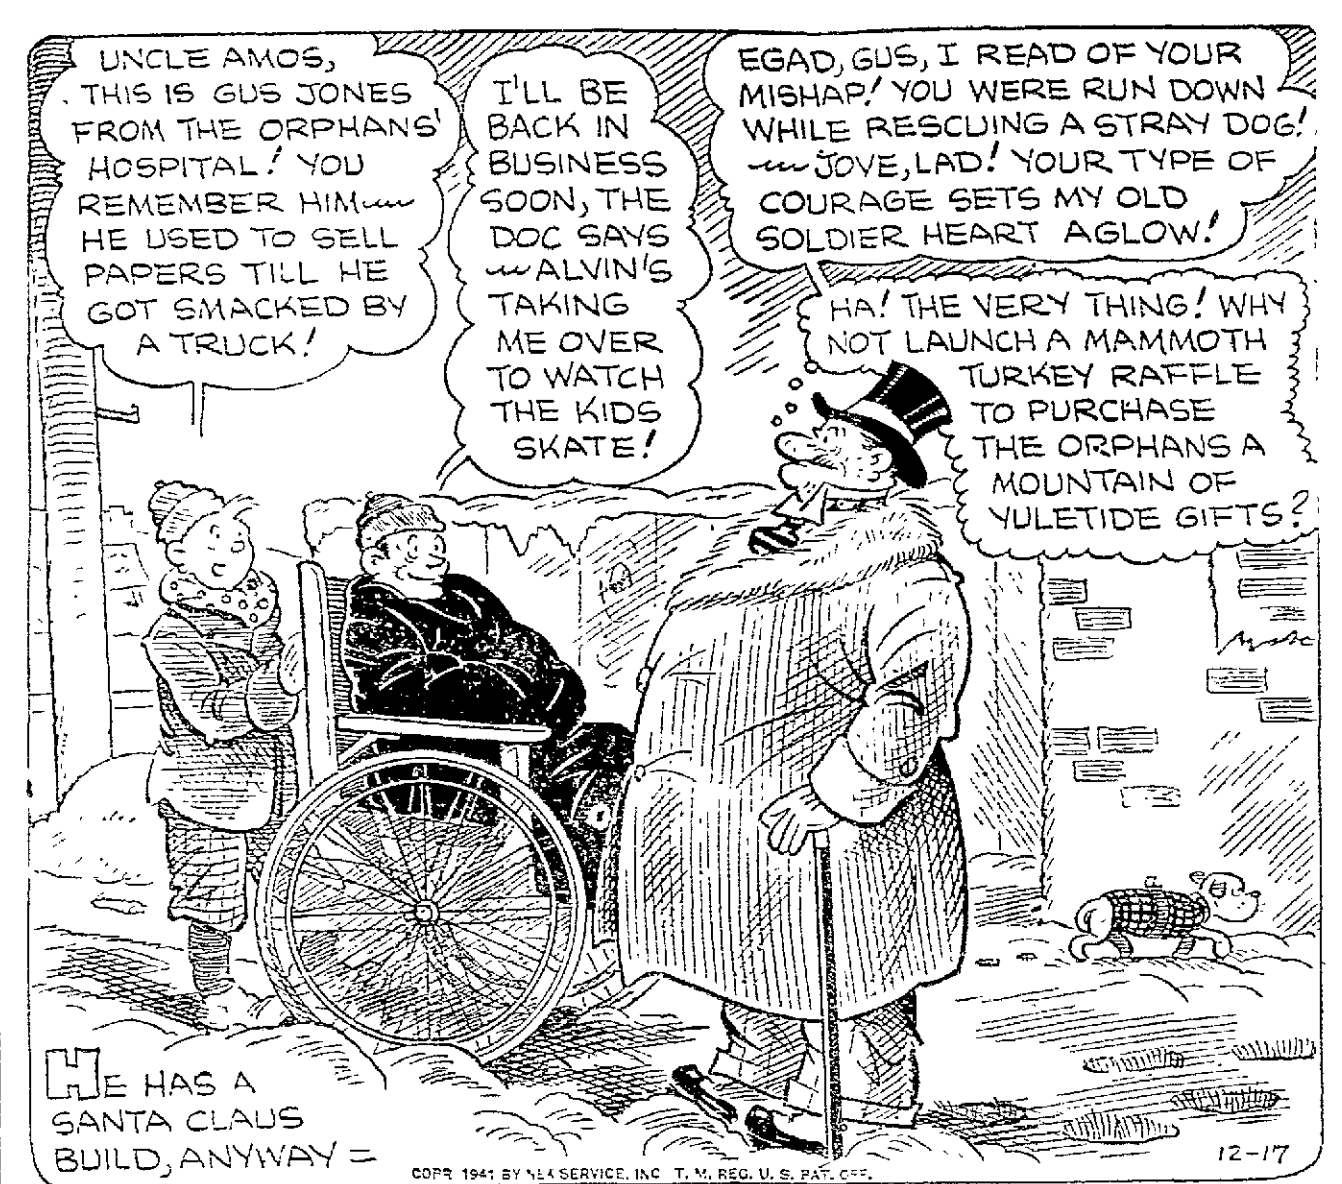

"Don't remember," he said at last. "I told you earlier in the evening that it wasn't fair for you to ask me my opinions of the people at the Inn until I knew who was killed? Well, now I know it was Ann. I'm not going to pretend to pull any punches. The Barn's success last summer was due to Ann. Elissa Hingham's one of the Barn's backers. Elissa's husband Horace is—"

"B. B. Horace," Asey interrupted. "Up on the record, what's the first name?"

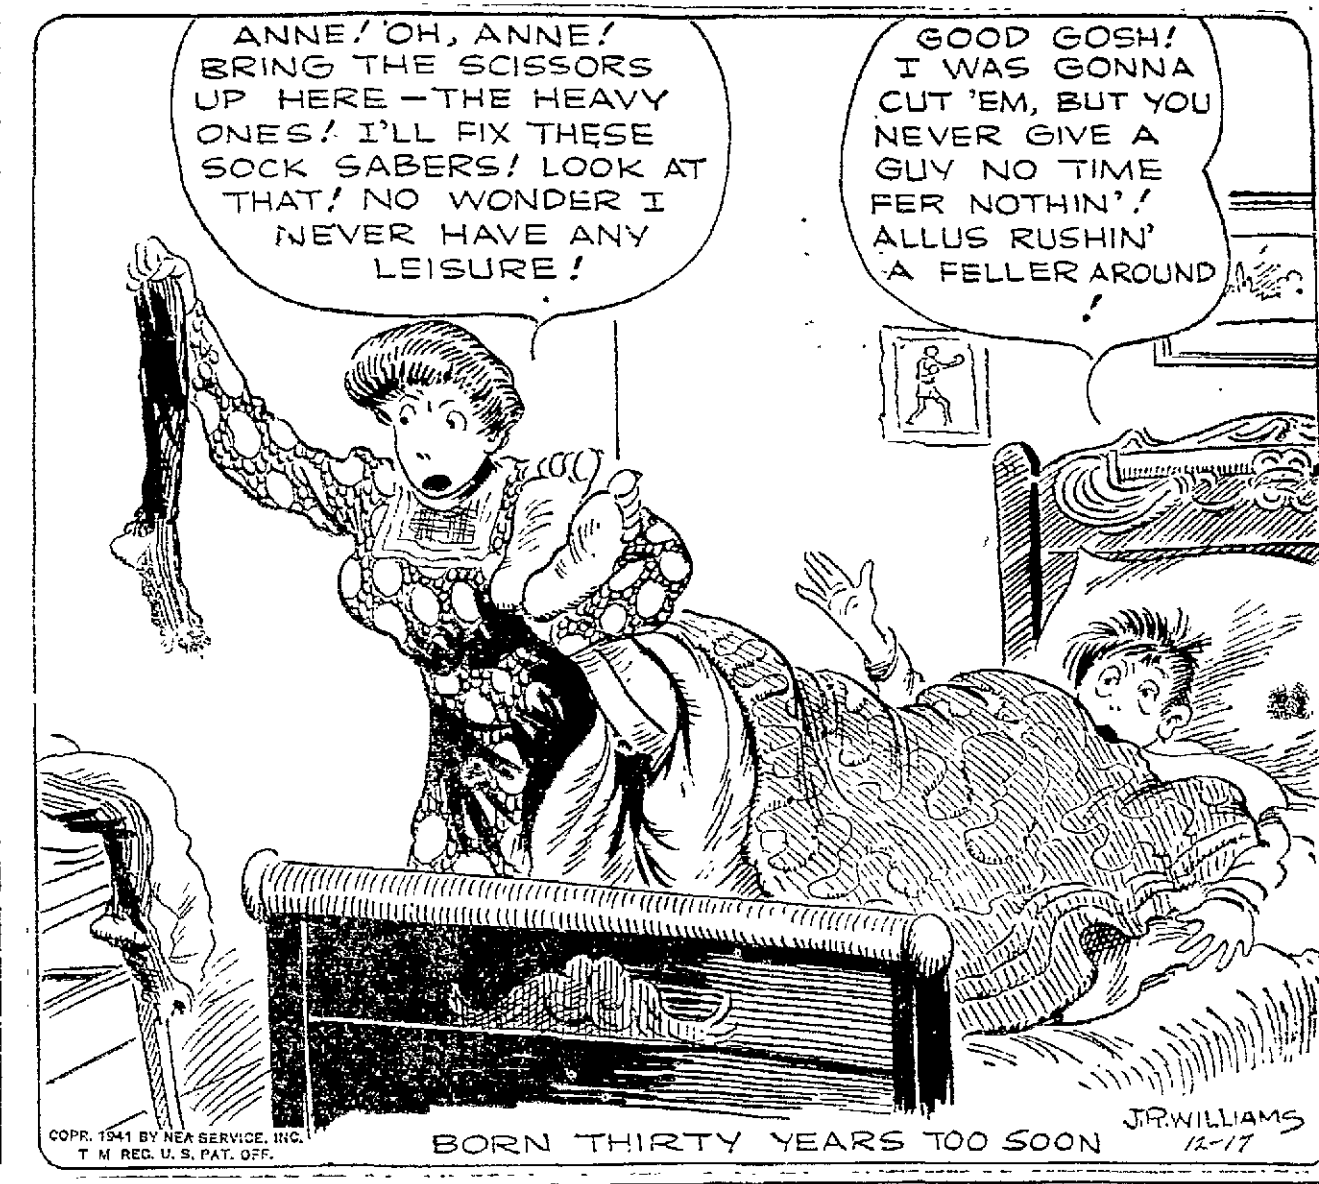

"His last name," Rankin said. "Well, it's—let's see. Sproul. I don't know if it's Henderson, or Henderson or Martinson, or something. I don't really remember. Anyway, Horace has not enough to know that Ann is gone."

To Jim—
for holding my hand tight the day we were married... "That's what I had for lunch," for the things you didn't say the time I ripped off the fender for wanting a good watch for years and years, but being too unselfish to go and spend the money on your self.
Dearest, here's your Hamilton with all my love!
Peggy

To Peggy—
for marrying me in the first place... for the 2,000 pairs of socks you've darned... for planning a thousand meals a year—and having them taken for granted... for wanting a good watch over so long... and letting your slow-moving husband think he'd hit on it all by himself.
for just being you... Darling, here's your Hamilton with all my love!
Jim

RED CROSS TO BE READY FOR ANY EMERGENCY

Today there is no more hollow phrase than, "It can't happen here!"

The uncertainties of the current war are greater than in any other conflict, and throughout the nation all precautions are being taken against attack from any quarter in any form. While every American realizes full well that his country needs every ounce of man power at the front, in its industry, in civilian defense and in all branches of war work, each also realizes that the Red Cross will be on every front, no matter where it may be, and will be caring for victims of war, combatants and non-combatants alike.

The funds now being sought by the Red Cross, of which at least $20,000 will be contributed by Warren county's citizens, will be utilized as follows:

To meet the primary and fundamental Red Cross responsibilities to the American armed forces;

To cover the expansion and maintenance of existing Red Cross services and the development of such additional services as may be necessary for civilian defense and morale in this country;

To render such aid to the people and forces associated with this government in the war, or to other peoples where such action would be consistent with the national interest, as may be appropriate.

To meet any other requirements for Red Cross relief or service directly or indirectly growing out of the conflict.

It is not possible to foresee all of the emergencies which inevitably develop as the war continues, both at home and abroad, but the American Red Cross will, in its discretion, utilize these funds to deal adequately with all situations as fall within the scope of its activities, in a manner consistent with its principles and traditions.

Joe Dimaggio Rated "Outstanding Male Athlete of 1941"

Stellar Yankee Outfielder Easy Victor in Large Field; Ted Williams Runs Second

By ORLO ROBERTSON
New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—For breaking all major league consecutive hitting records with a string of 56 straight games, Joe Dimaggio was voted the outstanding male athlete of 1941 by a margin of more than 2 to 1 over the nearest rival.

The slugging New York Yankee outfielder, who batted .357, scored a total of 157 points as 12 of the 52 sports experts participating in the Associated Press annual poll placed him first on their list. He was given either second or third place on 24 other ballots.

Dimaggio's record in hitting consecutive games was broken by Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, who batted .344, scored 148 points and was voted second.

Williams, who batted .344, scored 148 points and was voted second.

ROCKS, STARS WIN IN UPSETS IN "Y" LOOPS

Upsets came in bunches last night about town, what with "Nummy" Wooster, "upsetting" the pins and the Rocks and All-Stars scoring two major upset victories in the Y. M. C. A. basketball leagues.

The Stars whipped the strong White Horses in a Class B encounter to force a three-way tie in that four team circuit. A big third quarter gave the Stars a 36-29 verdict with Nelson leading the scoring with 12 points.

In the Class A fracas, Jack Zeres piled up 14 points as the Rock Cleaners upset a weakened Patterson five, who were playing without the services of Dick Tucker, stellar guard, and lost Johnny Pick early in the game.

The Rocks scored 22 points to 6 in the third canto to turn the tide of victory.

South Becomes Winter Sports Center; Gets Five Football Games, Also Racing Program

Atlanta, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The southland today became a mid-winter sports mecca as it adopted the Pacific coast's war-orphaned football games and race horses.

Two of California's colorful grid classics—the Rose Bowl and the East-West All-Star—were blacked out by Army orders and transplanted in the south. California's racing tracks were closed.

It will give Dixie the nation's top three football bowl games, two star-studded intersectional battles, and a winter horse racing program jammed with big names.

More than 250,000 fans are expected to pack stadia in four weeks of thrilling football.

This is the lineup:

Dec. 27—North-South All-Star game, Montgomery, Ala.

Jan. 1—Duke and Oregon State in the first Rose Bowl game, Durham, N. C.

Jan. 1—Fordham and Missouri in the Sugar Bowl, New Orleans.

NUMMYWOOSTER REGISTERS 700 MARK AT ARCADE

"Nummy" Wooster

For the first time in two years, Warren Rogers had a 700 total to talk about today, and Norm Wooster was the bowler who was being showered with praise.

"Nummy" hit an even 700 last night in a City League match while bowling for the Warren Baking Company against McCabe's Restaurant. He piled up 221 in the first game, raised that to 247 in the second, then spilled the well-battered pins for 222 in the third contest to come out with the even 700 mark.

Wooster had several "turkeys," numerous doubles, and in his second game managed to collect five strikes in finishing that effort. In his last game, "Nummy" needed a spare and a strike in the tenth in order to get the even 700 score. He proceeded to get the spare, and then, that mammoth hook of his found the road to the pocket and cleaned the No. 4 drive, on which he threw his final ball.

Wooster's sharpshooting, however, was of little aid to his mates, as their scores were not strong enough collectively to do better than split with the fast McCabe's outfit. But Wooster's mark was enough to help the bakers establish a new league team total record of 2876.

Dukes Topple Oregon By 33 to 28 Margin

Pittsburgh, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Duquesne University's "green" basketball squad showed promise of stardom in the foot-steps of last year's "iron men" in setting back Oregon University's squad last night 33 to 28 before some 3,500 spectators at the Gardens.

The Dukes beat Oregon last year 37 to 24.

In the feature event of a triple-header the Dukes battled neck and neck with the visitors through the first two quarters, then spurred by a scoring spree of seven consecutive points by Guard Stan Noszka in the third period, gained the lead.

Noszak was the individual scoring star, sinking 7 baskets and two free throws for 16 points, almost equalling the total scoring of his mates. Furman and Marshik led the Oregonians with six points apiece.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS PROGRAM IS COMING THING FOR HIGH SCHOOLS; CORRY EXPECTED TO TRY IT THROUGH YEARS OF 1942, 1943

Not long ago we had a long chat with Coach "Heinie" Kolpien, veteran Dragon basketball mentor, on intra-mural athletics, and of the day coming when they would replace the big time scholastic shows carded today. It was not a pleasing subject on which to talk, because to us it seemed, take away big time football, basketball and baseball, and what would be left to interest sports fans? However, Kolpien and this writer discussed the assets of intra-mural sports, their importance, and argued pro and con as to which would be more beneficial in the high school athletic programs throughout the country. Here's where we were cornered, and the mentor fairly beamed with pride as he soundly upheld the argument for intra-mural athletics and verbally dreamed of the day when mothers and fathers would come out to the football field or the basketball court and watch their sons playing, not for blood, but primarily to build strong bodies and active minds, to keep every youth healthy and to give all students more and greater opportunities to participate in athletics. He optimistically pointed to the fact that schools would no longer be trying to keep the "gate" up high enough to balance the books each year, he feared, and that intra-mural sports are going to be attempted today, but would be playing sports for the fun to be found in them, and for the athletic value to be derived from them.

We have thought about this little conversation many times since then, admitted to ourselves that as far as high schools are concerned, a pure intra-mural sports program would be far more beneficial than the present day setup, but wondered with no little fear what would happen should the old inter-scholastic rivalries such as Warren-Jamestown, Bradford-Olean, Oil City-Franklin, etc., be disposed of, once and for all. What kind of interest could be kindled in a complete localized program of competitive sports? Would the public be in favor of watching the juniors tackle the seniors in baseball contest, or the freshmen hop on the sophomores in basketball? Possibly they would and probably they wouldn't, but, of course, the schools would no longer worry about the paying public because these encounters would be free of charge and the money with which to operate them would come from school taxes, of which a certain percentage would be set aside to intra-mural athletics. But Kolpien and this agent agreed that this program was not likely to be seen in our day, and so we tried to pass it off. But now, from Corry, we understand that intra-mural sports are going to be attempted through 1942-43, though the big time program will continue. There's a compromise we mentioned, and if both sports menus can survive together, we're all for introducing intra-mural sports.

Corry plans to set aside so much time for class leagues in all sports, to give Coach Russell Byler added assistance in his work, primarily to build material for the inter-scholastic program of basketball, football and baseball through the intra-mural plan. This action seems certain to be passed by the Corry board of school directors in their next meeting, or at least in one not too far distant, and should the Erie county school find the scheme successful, it is highly possible that the plan will spread in this area quickly. During the last World War, reports state that one of every three examined for the U. S. Army were physically unfit for service. This is the main condition which scholastic athletic instructors, such as Kolpien, want to eliminate, and they firmly believe that the answer is to get more students to participate in sports through an intra-mural setup. Today, if the boy can't make the varsity squad in football, he hasn't anything left where he can gain recognition for his efforts. On the scrub teams, he's forgotten, and he doesn't learn the game nor does he get an honest chance to participate in a sport, no matter how much he loves it. It's the same way in all other sports. But—it's the little man that counts—the forgotten boy and here's the boy that coaches like Kolpien want to help with an intra-mural sports program, so that he too, may develop a competitive spirit, healthy body, and active mind, possessions which he may take into the world and which will benefit him greatly in later life.

GIANTS PREPARE SURPRISE FOR CHICAGO BEARS

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The New York Giants, as underdogs in Sunday's National Pro Football League championship play-off with the Chicago Bears, aren't planning on much barking—but they hope to bite.

"It seems," says Steve Owens, "that most everyone has forgotten that we played the Bears early last fall in an exhibition and led them for 57 minutes before losing, 14 to 8."

"Tuffy Leemans, pride and joy of the Giant backfield, wasn't in that encounter at all. But he is ready for Sunday's fray in Chicago, even if some of his teammates won't be.

Owens was in the stands as Chicago defeated the Green Bay Packers Sunday at Wrigley Field for the western flag and came back with some definite ideas about stopping the Bears' T-formation.

"I think the Packers' seven-man line on defense was a flop, so I am fixing up something else," is Steve's conviction that the passing of the Bears' Sid Luckman must be smothered to give the eastern titleholders their chance for triumph.

Owens tried his "something" in a three-hour drill yesterday with Leemans taking the place of Luckman in the workout.

"Boy," exclaimed the tough one after several of his passes had been smeared, "we ought to be able to raise a bit of something or other with their attack Sunday."

George Franck, the former Minnesota speedster, appeared fully recovered from his back injury and Captain Mel Hein, the everlasting center, drilled with his broken nose held together with tape.

DRAGONS BATTLE CORRY BEAVERS THERE TONIGHT

Prepared for a hard tussle and improved to some extent in a brief time since the Friday night opener last week against Oil City, the Warren High School Dragons invaded Corry tonight to do battle against the Beavers of that city in a feature attraction on the high school court, expected to get under way about nine o'clock.

Corry was trounced in its opener by a tough Youngsville squad, 44-32, and lost to an even stronger Sharpshooter High School squad by a 40-10 count in an engagement last Friday night.

The Dragons, playing sloppy ball in the first half against the losers, showed plenty of form and ability in a last half rally that nearly carried them to victory despite the miserable start, and were much the stronger of the two squads at the finish, but strength didn't pay off at that stage of the game.

However, Coach "Heinie" Kolpien's squad will endeavor not to make the same mistake twice in succession tonight when they meet Corry, and a little faster breakaway will give the players agree, the early confidence which they need.

Smith and Lundquist at forwards, Wright at center, with Urbanski and Black at guards looked like the probable starting lineup today for tonight's fracas.

In the Oil City game, Wright's ball handling and Smith's sharpshooting were invaluable and made a fight out of a contest which at halftime looked as though it would be a rout in favor of the Oilers.

With that little feeling of nervousness that accompanies the first game in which a scholastic candidate ever plays off the shoulders of the less experienced Black, Lundquist and Urbanski, Warren's forces should get together and click in much smoother fashion against the Beavers.

What the verdict will be will be known late tonight, and a lot of Dragon followers are expected to be seated in the Corry gymnasium when the two teams trot onto the hardwood for the feature show.

Practice These Air Raid Precautions

It is the duty of every American now to train for efficient, cool-headed conduct in any emergency the war may bring. The photos below show approved preparations that the average household should take to minimize danger during an air raid. Under instruction of Mrs. May Singhi Breen, national air raid protection director of the American Women's Voluntary Services, members of her corps and air raid wardens demonstrate in the New York home of Janet Hochstadter.

BLACKOUT—With cellulose tape or adhesive plaster, tape windows so that glass will not fly wild. Screen them completely with a heavy black curtain. If none is available, use blankets or heavy bedspreads.

WALL PREPARATION—Remove piles of old paper and any inflammable liquid, such as cleaning fluid, from the house. This precaution helps forestall explosions and prevents the spread of fire which can cause as much damage as bombs.

SHELTER—A raid shelter can be improvised quickly with a long, sturdy table, reinforced by planks on its top. Around it pile sandbags, heavy mattresses and heavily upholstered furniture. Sandbagging is only partially complete in photo above.

SAND AND WATER—Hasten to fill tubs, sinks and pails of water for fire-fighting and household needs. When alarm sounds water and gas should be shut off in the street. Keep bags or pails of sand handy.
